I'm the Link Worker for your school!

Hi, my name is Sarah Tustain and I'm the WHP Home School Link Worker covering for Lucy Plowright.

I am passionate about working with, and on behalf of, children and young people to enable them to achieve their full potential in life.

I have worked in both primary and short stay schools, supporting children with specific learning needs and those who have been excluded from mainstream education. It's so important to encourage all children towards a positive attitude to school life because of how this may impact on their future, through to the GCSE years. Children get the most from their learning when they attend school each day and are in good learning environments in both school and at home.

Good relationships between parents and carers and staff in school can help, by extending and sharing new experiences across home and school. This helps growing children to develop to their best. Children are not born with a manual and any parent can at times feel like they stumble through, getting it right and making mistakes, always learning as they go.

Sometimes, a parent might wish someone would listen and help them to think of a solution or a way forward. I would love to give families within Wyre Forest and Hagley the opportunity to be listened to and supported in whichever way they need.

Sarah
